Digital Citizenship Week

Next week, our students will be focusing on lessons centered on the digital world. Many students have phones, tablets and chromebooks. These tools are primarily used for learning and communication, however students use these also to stream videos, movies, music, and play games. It is important and necessary to be equipped with the knowledge and understanding of using best practices to reflect whose and who we are, God's dearly beloved children.

Technology is valuable because it provides us with a wealth of information and challenges us to become critical thinkers and creators. Using the curriculum from Common Sense Media, classes will be discussing technology. Topics such as creating balance, the meaning behind words and actions, how to be a role model, using privacy settings, creating screen-free times, and even spotting fake or misinformation.
